

National Severe Weather Warning Service

Chief Forecasters Assessment

A cold front will become slow moving across the west of Northern Ireland during Monday night and Tuesday morning. Rainfall accumulations of 20-30 mm are expected widely with 40 mm possible over higher ground.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 20:00 on Mon, 28th Nov 2011 until 10:00 on Tue, 29th Nov 2011

Rain will become persistent and heavy at times during Monday evening, and overnight into Tuesday morning. As ground is already saturated there is a risk of localised flooding and transport disruption.
